This year's world Easter scene, which comes to its joyous climax Sunday in memory of Christ's resurrection, is dominated by traditional celebrations but flecked with unusual touches.

Thousands of pilgrims streamed into Rome for the Roman Catholic Easter vigil service tonight in St. Paul's Basilica, with a Mass concelebrated by Pope Paul VI and two Benedictine abbots. Thousands of Romans streamed out of the city, bound for the mountains and the shore over the long weekend.

On Good Friday the pontiff bore a cross through the heart in a sermon that all men were "co-responsible" for the death of Christ, because He died to save all men from their sins. The ancient holy city of Jerusalem was different this year: It was united under Israeli rule, and Christian Easter coincided with Jewish Passover.

Hundreds of Israelis watched as Christian Arabs and pilgrims from many lands including the Judge James Sickal presided. KANSAS CITY (AP)- Over- United States trod the Way of

THE TITANIC SAGA REOPENS

A night 56 years ago -- the night of April 14-15. 1912 -- has been recaptured in the pages of a book and on motion picture and television screens as A Night to Remember. This was the night the "unsinkable" great White Star liner, Titanic, smashed into an iceberg off Newfoundland on her maiden voyage and sank. She took with her 1,517 persons.

The anniversary is relevant this year because the Titanic saga is being reopened. The British Mercantile Marine Service Association, a sea captains' union, is asking the British Board of Trade to clear the name of the late Capt. Stanley Lord, skipper of the merchantman Californian. It was the Californian which, in the view of both U. S. and British investigating committees, failed to respond promptly to distress signals from the Titanic.

The union petition raises questions as to the timing of the firing of the signal rockets and about the locations of the ships at the time of the tragedy. One reason for the international shock effect of the sinking was that the Titanic carried among its more than 2,000 passengers some of the most distinguished personalities of the time.

The Titanic was memorialized in poems, musical compositions, and many articles. But the most lasting memorial to the crack liner is an operation which is observing its 54th year under the direction of the U. S. Coast Guard -- the International Ice Patrol. The service was founded on recommendations of the First International Safety Conference held at London in 1913. Since the patrol's inception the following year, not one life has been lost in North Atlantic shipping lanes as a result of a collision with an iceberg.

Many small employers are economically unable to hire and train teen-agers under the federal minimum wage of $1.60 an hour which went into effect in February, according to the National Federation of Independent Business.

MISSOURI'S REPUBLICAN MARTYRS

We are amused at the whistling-in-Dixie statements issued after President Johnson's announcement not to seek re-election by two Missouri Republican leaders. Both men -- Lawrence Roos and Dorman Steelman -- said they felt the announcement considerably helped the GOP's chances in this state in the November general elections.

Both men have short memories.

For both Roos and Steelman have been blasting away at the Lyndon Johnson policies since anyone would print their remarks. Roos, who is supervisor of St. Louis County, has risked his political future against one of the most popular Governors in the state's history, and one of the motivations behind his candidacy was the belief that a Democratic ticket headed by Lyndon Johnson would prove to be highly unpopular with the state's voters.

The same motivation was behind the daring move by U. S. Rep. Thomas C. Curtis of St. Louis, who had almost lifetime tenure in his Second Congressional District post. But Rep. Curtis, motivated and encouraged at least in part by the Johnson unpopularity of the moment decided to move to the U.S. Senate race. Steelman, who is chairman of the Republican State Committee, has been speaking throughout the state about the irresponsibility of the Johnson administration.

Suddenly this has all changed. No one knows -not even Roos and Steelman -- who is to be the Democratic nominee. And when these men say their chances are better in November, they are either politically naive or politically stupid. A great many Missouri Democrats had sworn, with perhaps not the greatest fidelity, they would not vote for Lyndon Johnson for President in 1968. Some of them obviously meant what they said; some did not. But the truth is that Lyndon Johnson would have been hard-pressed to carry Missouri in the November election, and a good many observers believe he would have lost the Show-Me state where so many of his programs 14. THE TITANIC SAGA REOPENS

A night 56 years ago -- the night of April 14-15, 1912 -- has been recaptured in the pages of a book and on motion picture and television screens as A Night to Remember. This was the night the "unsinkable" great White Star liner, Titanic, smashed into an iceberg off Newfoundland on her maiden voyage and sank. She took with her 1,517

The anniversary is relevant this year because the Titanic saga is being reopened. The British Mercantile Marine Service Association, a sea captains' union, is asking the British Board of Trade to clear the name of the late Capt. Stanley Lord, skipper of the merchantman Californian. It was the Californian which, in the view of both U. S. and British investigating committees, failed to respond promptly to distress signals from the Titanic.

The union petition raises questions as to the timing of the firing of the signal rockets and about the locations of the ships at the time of the tragedy. One reason for the international shock effect of the sinking was that the Titanic carried among its more than 2,000 passengers some of the most distinguished personalities of the time.

The Titanic was memorialized in poems, musical compositions, and many articles. But the most lasting memorial to the crack liner is an operation which is observing its 54th year under the direction of the U.S. Coast Guard -- the International Ice Patrol. The service was founded on recommendations of the First International Safety Conference held at London in 1913. Since the patrol's inception the following year, not one life has been lost in North Atlantic shipping lanes as a result of a collision with an iceberg.

MISSOURI'S REPUBLICAN MARTYRS

We are amused at the whistling-in-Dixie statements issued after President Johnson's announcement not to seek re-election by two Missouri Republican leaders. Both men -- Lawrence Roos and Dorman Steelman -- said they felt the announcement considerably helped the GOP's chances in this state in the November general elections.

Both men have short memories.

For both Roos and Steelman have been blasting away at the Lyndon Johnson policies since anyone would print their remarks. Roos, who is supervisor of St. Louis County, has risked his political future against one of the most popular Governors in the state's history, and one of the motivations behind his candidacy was the belief that a Democratic ticket headed by Lyndon Johnson would prove to be highly unpopular with the

The same motivation was behind the daring move by U. S. Rep. Thomas C. Curtis of St. Louis, who had almost lifetime tenure in his Second Congressional District post. But Rep. Curtis, motivated and encouraged at least in part by the Johnson unpopularity of the moment decided to move to the U.S. Senate race.

Steelman, who is chairman of the Republican State Committee, has been speaking throughout the state about the irresponsibility of the Johnson administration.

Suddenly this has all changed. No one knows -not even Roos and Steelman -- who is to be the Democratic nominee. And when these men say their chances are better in November, they are either politically naive or politically stupid.

A great many Missouri Democrats had sworn, with perhaps not the greatest fidelity, they would not vote for Lyndon Johnson for President in 1968. Some of them obviously meant what they said; some did not. But the truth is that Lyndon Johnson would have been hard-pressed to carry Missouri in the November election, and a good many observers believe he would have lost the Show-Me state where so many of his programs have proved unpopular.

Now Lyndon Johnson is no longer a part of the picture, and the built-in attacks of Missouri Republicans have, overnight, disappeared.

Although we believe Lyndon Johnson probably would have defeated Richard Nixon in November, the race would have been close. It would have been decided in states such as Missouri, where the issue would have been clearly in doubt. But Sponsor: Society for the Pres- founding of Civitan Internatl. on doors to play after many months the largest peacetime budget de- maybe saved. If so, what we see all this is now theoretical. Ann Landers

Dear Ann Landers: I have been told I am critical, hard-headed, unsympathetic and a perfectionist. If you agree I will apologize in the front window of Macy's department store next Saturday at high noon.

I saw fit to criticize a sitter because she'd: (1) Dug huge chunks out of a ham which I had planned to serve to my bridge club.

(2) Ate nearly one-third of a coconut custard pie which had not been cut into.

Norton generally spent his fishing weekends drowning worms instead of catching fish. On one fishing misadventure, however, he nearly drowned himself as well. After renting a row boat and oaring his way to the middle of a lake, he promptly fell into it. When finally fished out, fisherman Norton filed a claim for his injuries under an insurance policy that covered him against accidental injury while a paying passenger on a railroad, ferry boat or other ship or boat.

"Sorry," he was told, "but your accident wasn't covered by your policy. When you began rowing, you weren't a fare paying passenger."

"Sure I was," was Norton's answer. "Renting the row boat was the same as paying a fare. I was being transported to the middle of the lake through the good graces of the owner of the row boat. Even though he wasn't aboard. Iwas his passenger." The dispute had to be resolved in court.

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you permit the dunked fisherman to collect under the policy? This is how the judge ruled: No! He held that a passenger is generally regarded as being a person who is transported from place to place by another. In this case, Norton transported himself; that he rowed himself to the middle of the lake. What's more, concluded the judge, he hired the row boat for fishing and not to be transported from place to place. (Based upon a 1964 U. S. Court of Appeals Decision)

By Jack Strauss, LL. B. Norton generally spent his fishing weekends drowning worms instead of catching fish. On one fishing misadventure, however, he nearly drowned himself as well. After renting a row boat and oaring his way to the middle of a lake, he promptly fell into it. When finally fished out, fisherman Norton filed a claim for his injuries under an insurance policy that covered him against accidental injury while a paying passenger on a railroad, ferry boat or other ship or boat. "Sorry," he was told, "but your accident wasn't covered by your policy. When you began rowing, you weren't a fare paying passenger."

"Sure I was," was Norton's answer. "Renting the row boat was the same as paying a fare. I was being transported to the middle of the lake through the good graces of the owner of the row boat. Even though he wasn't aboard, I was his passenger."

The dispute had to be resolved in court. IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you permit the dunked fisherman to collect under the policy? This is how the judge ruled: No! He held that a passenger is enerally regarded as being a person who is transported from place to place by another. In this case, Norton transported himself; that he rowed himself to the middle of the lake. What's more, concluded the judge, he hired the row boat for fishing and not to be transported from place to place.

THE TITANIC SAGA REOPENS

A night 56 years ago -- the night of April 14-15. 1912 -- has been recaptured in the pages of a book and on motion picture and television screens as A Night to Remember. This was the night the "unsinkable" great White Star liner, Titanic, smashed into an iceberg off Newfoundland on her maiden voyage and sank. She took with her 1.517 persons.

The anniversary is relevant this year because the Titanic saga is being reopened. The British Mercantile Marine Service Association, a sea captains' union, is asking the British Board of Trade to clear the name of the late Capt. Stanley Lord, skipper of the merchantman Californian. It was the Californian which, in the view of both U. S. and British investigating committees, failed to respond promptly to distress signals from the Titanic.

The union petition raises questions as to the timing of the firing of the signal rockets and about the locations of the ships at the time of the tragedy. One reason for the international shock effect of the sinking was that the Titanic carried among its more than 2,000 passengers some of the most distinguished personalities of the time.

The Titanic was memorialized in poems, musical compositions, and many articles. But the most lasting memorial to the crack liner is an operation which is observing its 54th year under the direction of the U.S. Coast Guard -- the International Ice Patrol. The service was founded on recommendations of the First International Safety Conference held at London in 1913. Since the patrol's inception the following year, not one life has been lost in North Atlantic shipping lanes as a result of a collision with an iceberg.

Many small employers are economically unable to hire and train teen-agers under the federal minimum wage of $1.60 an hour which went into effect in February, according to the National Federation of Independent Business.

How would you like to be a married woman and have your husband bring home a jag instead of money?

In a world of self-seeking ruthlessness, where does one find the verities that give a foundation for faith? In a world of harsh cacophony, where can one find the quietness that lessens the tensions of daily living?

interlocked branches form cathedral aisles. Stand among great boles with furrowed bark--trees that have known the blizzards of winter and the heat of summer for a century. Stand on the soft carpet of primal humus that means life itself.

Among giant oaks, maples and beeches there is a serenity that is missing in the marts where men barter and trade. No man need be lonely if trees are his friends.

A great tree represents the fulfillment of time. A century ago a seed or a nut fell to earth; a small white root struck downward; a slender green stem started toward the sun and sky.

MISSOURI'S REPUBLICAN MARTYRS

We are amused at the whistling-in-Dixie statements issued after President Johnson's announcement not to seek re-election by two Missouri Republican leaders. Both men -- Lawrence Roos and Dorman Steelman -- said they felt the announcement considerably helped the GOP's chances in this state in the November general elections.

Both men have short memories.

For both Roos and Steelman have been blasting away at the Lyndon Johnson policies since anyone would print their remarks. Roos, who is supervisor of St. Louis County, has risked his political future against one of the most popular Governors in the state's history, and one of the motivations behind his candidacy was the belief that a Democratic ticket headed by Lyndon Johnson would prove to be highly unpopular with the state's voters.

The same motivation was behind the daring move by U. S. Rep. Thomas C. Curtis of St. Louis, who had almost lifetime tenure in his Second Congressional District post. But Rep. Curtis, motivated and encouraged at least in part by the Johnson unpopularity of the moment decided to move to the U.S. Senate race.

Steelman, who is chairman of the Republican State Committee, has been speaking throughout the state about the irresponsibility of the Johnson administration.

Suddenly this has all changed. No one knows -not even Roos and Steelman -- who is to be the Democratic nominee. And when these men say their chances are better in November, they are either politically naive or politically stupid. A great many Missouri Democrats had sworn, with perhaps not the greatest fidelity, they would not vote for Lyndon Johnson for President in 1968. Some of them obviously meant what they said; some did not. But the truth is that Lyndon Johnson would have been hard-pressed to carry Missouri in the November election, and a good many observers believe he would have lost the Show-Me state where so many of his programs 14. If You Were the Judge

Passenger Doesn't Row His Boat

Norton generally spent his fishing weekends drowning worms instead of catching fish. On one fishing misadventure, however, he nearly drowned himself as well. After renting a row boat and oaring his way to the middle of a lake, he promptly fell into it. When finally fished out, fisherman Norton filed a claim for his injuries under an insurance policy that covered him against accidental injury while a paying passenger on a railroad, ferry boat or other ship or boat. "Sorry," he was told, "but your accident wasn't covered by your policy. When you began rowing, you weren't a fare paying passenger." "Sure I was," was Norton's answer. "Renting the row boat was the same as paying a fare. I was being transported to the middle of the lake through the good graces of the owner of the row boat. Even though he wasn't aboard. Iwas his passenger." The dispute had to be resolved in court.

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you permit the dunked fisherman to collect under the policy? This is how the judge ruled: No! He held that a passenger is generally regarded as being a person who is transported from place to place by another. In this case, Norton transported himself; that he rowed himself to the middle of the lake.

What's more, concluded the judge, he hired the row boat for fishing and not to be transported from place to place. (Based upon a 1964 U. S. Court of Appeals Decision)
